BONEY BOY WINS A STAKE.

Watery South of England sunshine was in evidence yesterday at the Harlem racetrack, where everything showed the traces of the heavy rains of the preceding night and early morning. The course was a sea of mud. Notwithstanding the free use of the blue pencil, there were enough horses left in to make fields large enough to suit both the public and the bookmakers.

The second race, one mile and twenty yards, was declared off and a one mile selling race substituted.

The La Grange Selling Stakes, three-quarters of a mile, for two-year-olds, was up for decision, and the small number of starters and their inferior quality is corroborative of the assertion often advanced by students of turf matters, as to the inadvisability of racing associations giving stakes, the argument being extended to a declaration that overnight handicaps make better racing than do stakes. The La Grange Stakes was worth $1,130 to the winner, $200 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Boney Boy, on the strength of his runaway of two miles Tuesday, was held at 3 to 1, but the public play soon drove his price down to 9 to 5. Canace opened at 7 to 5 and popped up at every stage, landing at 34 to 1. There was always a steady play on Mr. Johnson. The others "ran for Sweeney," presumably. Canace broke quickest, but in the first 100 yards Gold Fox took command and led into the home stretch. Boney Boy was always second, and as he ran two open lengths behind Gold Fox on the turn "Virginia" Bradley nervously exclaimed: "Why doesn't Rose go to the front; I told him to do so." Gold Fox quit at the last eighth, it having been quite a contest from the head of the straight, and Boney Boy, being in front at the last 150 yards, looked to have an easy thing of it, when Canace came very fast and ran Bradley's horse a close finish. Mr. Johnson got away from First Tenor and Gold Fox close in and got third money.

Coralis, when the betting over the first race opened was flirted with by the bookmakers, one man posting 10 to 1 and "rubbing" without taking a cent. All form players were anxious to get on but not until 3 to 1 had been posted did the stable money begin to come in. Even Hiram Scoggan, the most conservative of bettors had a bet on Coralis, who went to the post at 7 to 5, although many of the 17 regular pencilers (there were on two field books) had a dash before her name. When the start was effected Coralis shot to the front and under a strong pull throughout, was never headed. Warren Point, fifth on the far turn, ran home second, and beat Moroni, third, several lengths. Waldo's horse had a hard fight with Inuendo for the show money. Fremont ran second the first half then died away.

Elidad opened at 7 to 5, but went to 11 to 5, because it was said Holden could not ride him. Lizzie Cavalier was backed heavily. Just what is the matter with the boy Holden is not apparent. He rides Diggs splendidly and in the first race yesterday was third on Moroni. On Elidad, he, getting interfered with at the first turn, rode like an old hand and made up lost ground gradually, not getting to third position until three-eighths from home. Lizzie Cavalier had taken the lead, Branch being second, Sharon third, Alvarado II fourth, to the half mile ground. Here Branch gained on the leader and passed her on the upper turn. Sharon fell away, as also did Alvarado II, finishing with the trailers. Elidad passed Branch at the last eighth and won with Holden looking back. Lizzie Cavalier, third, just beat Collins, who was coming fast.

For the fourth race Queen of Song, opening equal favorite at 6 to 5 with Hardy Pardee, stayed in that notch while Applegate's colt advanced to 9 to 5. A great tip was Sun God, backed from 100 down to 40 to 1: he ran next to last. Nora Ives sprang to the lead, Hardy Pardee second, The Dragoon third, and so the first two named ran to the last eighth, where in a drive Hardy Pardee passed to the front. The Dragoon had stopped, and Frances D. was third, when from away behind came the favorite, and heading Nora Ives close home ran second, Hardy Pardee, all out, winning. Bloss finished fourth.

Tom Ryan's Midian, after advancing from 4 up to 12 to 1 in the betting, was left standing at the post in the next race. Primate led off, George H. Ketcham second, and so they ran to the first sixteenth inside the homestretch, where the favorite took the lead. Peter McCue showed third for a quarter, then King Bermuda took his place. The latter passed Primate at the last eighth, and, as here the favorite faltered, Rutter's work to steady him lost valuable time, and King Bermuda beat him to the wire. Rose, on the winner, rode a most determined finish, he having his horse to the whip three-sixteenths of a mile.

In the last race Cutter in going to the post acted badly and tried to run away, but was stopped by little J. Reiff, the jockey being cheered. Hosi went on at the quarter and was not headed, although Cutter and Roger B. brought him to the whip all through the home stretch. Martin K. was fourth, close up, at the three-quarters.

A prominent horseman says: "The statement that a priest living near Harlem owns George H. Ketcham is false."

W. & A. McGuigan will sell in the paddock at Harlem on Saturday next, at 1:30 p.m., Elizabeth R., Cora R. and Banish. Mr. McGuigan said: "This winds up the lot in training. I will ship my yearlings at once to my Arkansas chicken farm and there prepare them on a temporary racetrack I have on the place."

"Tommy" O'Hara, turf oracle, has this to say: "The reports of the length of time Starter Fitzgerald consumed in getting the horses off for the Futurity speak of record breaking as to length of time at the post. Now, in a stake race at Saratoga in 1885 Starter Wheatley took two hours and twenty-five minutes in getting the horses away from the post. I remember the race well. Eddie West rode Estrella, and he was the only boy not fined. Estrella was finally left at the post. The distance was five-eighths of a mile, and who do you suppose won the race? Why, Bigronet, the dam of Mar-timas, winner of the Futurity. But this is the first time I ever heard of the breeding argument coming to the front in this regard. It seems 'blood will tell' in long delays at the post as elsewhere."

TIM MURPHY'S OWNER DEAD.

Arthur C. White, a young turfman well known to habitues of all western race tracks from Chicago to San Francisco, died at the residence of his father in St. Louis last Friday evening. Long in partnership with "Stony" Clark, their famous old horse, Tim Murphy, brought them more note and money than all the others they at various times owned.

One, who was very close to the dead turfman, sends the following, concerning him, to DAILY RACING FORM:

"Though born, educated and widely known in St. Louis, he loved Chicago better and here has hosts of friends, who will hardly hear of his demise save through your columns. Again, much of his transient success in life was achieved here and his experience since his eighteenth year was only in racing, which was all in all to him.

"Born April 23, 1872, he grew to be a merry boy, always a practical joker and given to sport. At school he was easy first in his classes and fond of mathematics. His record as a plunger and bookmaker is well known. He was liberal to a fault, and during a few brief years led a pleasant life. Reverses came, followed by nineteen months of consumption, the last six of which were spent in San Antonio, Texas. In June his health commenced to give away altogether. A return to his home, July 31, followed, where he spent the last nineteen days of his life, ending August 19 at 8 p.m.

"Knowing his case to be a hopeless one, not a murmur or complaint of hard fate was ever known to escape him. His disposition through life was ever thus. All through the closing days he had nothing but good words for all friends present or failing to visit him. Conscious to the last, he was a marvel of patience, sweetness and endurance, having great will power. Happily there was not much physical suffering or else he concealed it from the dearest to him. Carefully and constantly attended by a devoted mother whom he worshiped, he accepted an unfortunate and untimely fate with a fortitude rarely seen and gave an example difficult to emulate."

MORE OF BURNS' CASE.

E. F. Simms, the owner of the good two-year-old, The Kentuckian, holds the contract on Jockey T. Burns, which was signed by the boy's parents. This contract is for a period of two years, dating from next January, and provides for the boy receiving a retainer of $2,500 per annum.

"My father and mother have realized what a mistake they made when they signed that contract," said Jockey Burns yesterday. "They were told that I was not capable of taking care of myself, and that the Schorrs were not looking after my welfare. Simms' contract calls for a yearly retainer of $2,500 for two seasons, to be paid to my parents. They received $2,500 when they signed the contract. My father at the time thought that a bird in hand was better than two in the bush, but he didn't realize what a mistake he was making. However, it makes no difference. My contract with Schorr & Son was drawn up and signed before my parents affixed their signatures to the Simms contract, and Mr. Schorr has the letter they wrote me authorizing me to make my own contract. Simms had second call on me last season, for which he paid Tom Hurns $2,000. Hurns sold my release to Schorr & Son last winter for $7,000. The contract he had on me was an iron-clad one. In it there was no provision for the payment of the usual riding fees.

"Mr. Schorr is giving me $15 for winning mounts and $5 for losing mounts, just the same, besides $50 for riding any of his horses to victory in stakes. He doesn't have to do this, and such generosity on his part is doubly appreciated by me, and I intend to stick to him to the last. I have always taken good care of my parents, sending my father $100 every two or three weeks.

"My parents reside in Chatham, Ontario. I bought them a house and lot up there, and bought the lot next door to our house this summer. This real estate was deeded to my parents. My father's health is not very good and he is not able to work much. I have several brothers and sisters, but they are all young, with the exception of an elder sister, whom I am now educating. Mr. Schorr has contracted to pay me a retainer of $8,000 per annum for two years. Under this contract I can make $15,000 a year, and I am satisfied the courts will not force me to live up to Simms' contract. I am eighteen years old and was with Hurns for five years. Of course, I am grateful for the trouble and expense he went to in developing me, but I think he has been amply repaid for all he did for me."

NO SYNDICATE BETTING.

Syndicate betting will not be in vogue at the coming fall meeting at Latonia.

This information, which comes from a source that gives to it the air of being, to all intents and purposes, official, will be received with intense satisfaction by local racegoers. The one-book system of betting, which was adopted on the local tracks last year merely as a matter of expediency to have the betting ring furnish the revenue necessary for meeting the purses hung up when it seemed evident that a sufficient number of independent books could not be secured to yield the requisite revenue, while it realized its purpose, hurt the game greatly.

The public were dissatisfied with the syndicate system of betting from the very first, and that dissatisfaction has manifested itself not only in grumbling, but also in a much more tangible way in the steady falling away in the attendance at the track and in the betting. With one or two exceptions, all the old-time good bettors about Cincinnati have quit visiting the tracks. In fact, the indications were that it was only a matter of time until the one-book system of betting would break up racing entirely on the local tracks.

The Latonia management realize this full well, and hence their determination to make a change in the betting methods.

Colonel W. E. Applegate, the principal stock holder in the Latonia track, is authority for the statement that there is to be no further syndicate betting at that course. The Colonel was in the city yesterday to participate in the election of Latonia's Board of Directors for the ensuing year. In conversation with an Enquirer reporter he said that it is the desire of himself and associates to have an open betting ring at the coming Latonia meeting. "In the event that racing should close at Chicago on account of weather, or for any other reason, I am confident that we can get enough books to go on to justify an open ring," said the Colonel; "but otherwise I do not believe that such an arrangement can be made."

"There is no reason to expect a cessation of racing at Chicago unless the weather should become such as to make it necessary, so it hardly seems reasonable to suppose that we can get the requisite number of books to make an open ring feasible. We realize, though, that the public do not want syndicate betting, and we have no desire to try to force it upon them. If we cannot have the old-fashioned open betting ring we will give the public a chance to make their own odds. If we cannot get books we will have mutual machines and auction pools, as in the days prior to modern methods of betting. The mutuals will be given a fair trial, too, as we will put on only two or three books, simply for the accommodation of the Western Union Telegraph Company in getting quotations for out-of-town poolrooms. I believe times will be better from now on, and feel confident that we will have a good meeting and better betting than has been known here for several years. There will be no syndicate betting in any event."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

Secretary Hopper of the Latonia Jockey Club is on his way home from Montana, where he has been acting as presiding judge at the Butte and Anaconda meetings. The racing season is not over but Mr. Hopper finds it necessary to return to prepare for the approaching meeting at Latonia.

W. E. Applegate's suggestion, printed elsewhere, that the old-time betting agencies, the pool box and the Paris Mutuals, may be resort to at the Latonia meeting is interesting. People, who attend the races nowadays, know but little of those methods of wagering, but there is no reason to doubt that they would take to them kindly after a few days of experience in testing the novelties. It is apparent that there are not now enough bookmakers in the west to provide sufficient revenue for three or four tracks operating at the same time, and it would really be an exceedingly good and timely occurrence if it should fall to the Latonia officials to be forced to demonstrate that a cure for one of the present embarrassments of western racing organizations can be readily found in the pool box and Paris Mutual machines. At Butte and Anaconda the revenue derived from these sources steadily equals that which would be received from a ring of twenty-two books at $100 per day. Allowing for Cincinnati's much greater population it would seem that a daily income of from $3,000 to $5,000 might reasonably be looked for from the pool box and Mutual percentages. That ought to be satisfactory. There is no doubt about the patronage. People, who go to the races to wager on results, will take any method that may be provided. They may assert that they prefer the books, but if the books are not there they will take to the substitute and be glad of the chance to do so.

As an indication of how thoroughly the coup on Flora Louise was carried out, the following from yesterday's Cincinnati Enquirer will be of interest locally: The Covington poolrooms were hard hit over the victory of Flora Louise in the closing race at Harlem yesterday. The rooms of Payne & Co. and Shannon & Co. together lost over $4,000 on the race. The White House was also touched up in lively fashion, and upward of $5,000 was taken out of the rooms over the victory of Rome Respass' filly. The largest bet was one of $200—$100 each way. John Payne got that, and he laid 9 and 3 to 1 for the money. Respass and his friends are said to have backed the filly in poolrooms all over the country. Flora Louise has just rounded to after a long sick spell, but she appears to be again herself, as she stepped off the six furlongs in 1:13t.

Squan, place, 3 to 5. Hurns, place, 7 to 5; show, 2 to 5.
